

PROSPECTUS 2016

Catholic Theological College (CTC) is committed to the highest standards of teaching and research in philosophy and theology, within the Catholic tradition.

It shares in the Church's mission to spread the Gospel, and provides academic formation for people committed to the pastoral service of the Church.

There has been great personal benefit to my study. As a 'cradle Catholic' there are so many aspects of my Catholic beliefs and practices that I have taken for granted. While I consider my Catholic faith to be central to who and what I am – there was much that I believed and yet couldn't articulate or consider beyond the 'heart'. Studying at CTC has given me the opportunity to have a deeper, richer and more 'adult' understanding of Catholicism.

WELCOME FROM THE MASTER

Catholic Theological College is a place of learning and research in a wide range of fields associated with the Christian faith. It offers opportunities for deeper understanding of our faith and for exploring the ways in which that faith can contribute to our contemporary world. Studying at CTC is a chance to be enriched by this reflection, drawing on the Catholic tradition, in a community that is committed to pastoral service of the Church.

The College brings together a stimulating and supportive mix of lay men and women, religious, and those preparing for the priesthood, with students of all ages and backgrounds. Some attend just a few lectures for personal interest, others complete undergraduate or postgraduate awards, with a growing number pursuing research in masters or doctoral degrees.

CTC is a College of the University of Divinity, which is a pioneer of ecumenical cooperation in theological education. It includes colleges from a wide range number of Christian churches, and has been offering academic awards for over a century.

CTC staff are not only highly qualified, with many having studied internationally, but are also actively involved in the pastoral life of the Church. Many of them have long experience as ministers, teachers and preachers that greatly enriches the perspective they bring to their scholarly reflection.

At the heart of CTC is the Daniel Mannix Library, which continues to add new scholarly resources to a collection that has been built up over more than ninety years. Its shelves of books and journals are surrounded by open and airy study spaces, which encourage its users to take up and read (Tolle Lege), as the College motto suggests.

As you explore this prospectus, I am sure you will find much useful information. I hope that you will also hear an invitation to join us at CTC, to deepen your understanding of the riches of our faith.

I am in my first year of study at CTC. The College has a great homely feel, with people from all walks of life, including lay people, religious and seminarians, sharing our passion for learning with each other, so there is a great sense of community. The lecturers and staff are always ready to assist. The skills we learn will no doubt assist us in responding confidently to the future challenges and opportunities we face as individuals.

Practicing medicine today I have found difficulties in the area of Bioethics and Christian Morality. At times I have had to make decisions that question my principles, my conscience and my faith. I needed to find out more. This brought me to CTC – seeking answers to my medical practice dilemmas. Not only am I finding answers one small step at a time but I find that I am understanding my Catholic faith more, getting acquainted with the Holy Scriptures, moral theology, wholeness and meditation to name a few. I know I am on the right track as I am starting to feel a difference in my attitudes and medical practice.

Spirituality seeks to appreciate how the Spirit enlivens the Christian. In an age when spirituality is often understood as something eclectic and individualist, unrelated to the Church, the study of spirituality at CTC opens some of the great treasures of the Christian tradition.

Moral Theology is the area of theology that explores questions about the implications of Christian Faith for our lives. It offers students an opportunity to reflect critically on the challenges and obligations of Christian faith in both its ecclesial and secular contexts.

Pastoral Studies is concerned with applying theological studies to teaching and ministry, and is particularly suited for students who are involved in or preparing for pastoral ministry.

Through signs, symbols, words and gestures, Liturgy articulates how God's love and presence are made manifest and shared with human beings. Studying liturgy gives a student greater insight into and knowledge of the Church's ritual and prayer.

Studying Philosophy will confront you with perennial questions about the human person, the world and God that have fascinated great thinkers for over 3,000 years. It will enable you to engage in rational enquiry and reflection both on the Christian tradition, and on contemporary issues that confront us in our secular world.

Christians believe they are called and enlivened by the Spirit of Christ. Church History studies how people have sought to put their Christian beliefs into practice, and is therefore concerned with spirituality as much as theology.

Theology has been described as “faith seeking understanding” (St Anselm of Canterbury). Systematic Theology studies the great mysteries of the Christian faith, leading us to an ever-deeper appreciation and understanding of the person of Christ.

Biblical Studies is concerned with the Word of God as the inspired and normative foundation of Christian Faith. As sacred scripture the Bible contains the story of divine revelation in human history. A wide range of scripture units is offered for study towards awards or for personal development and spiritual enrichment.

ENHANCING CATHOLIC INSTITUTIONAL IDENTITY

This unit introduces learners to the theological foundations, empirical frameworks, and pedagogical perspectives of the Enhancing Catholic School Identity (ECSI) approach to the mission of church schools. A survey of relevant demographic and cultural trends in Australia will help to identify key factors affecting the transmission of religious identification and personal faith formation. In this context, the key insights of Vatican II's theology of revelation, faith, and the person in relation to God and others will be explored. The empirical-theoretical instruments offered by the ECSI resources will be critically engaged with as a valuable tool for Catholic communities to respond intentionally and strategically to the challenges of faith formation in our context. We will examine the hermeneutical pedagogies and learning encounters called for by the revelatory dialogue with humanity initiated by God in and through the church in its missional agencies, and most clearly manifested in the person and ministry of Jesus Christ.

Presenters

- Dr Paul Sharkey is Director of Catholic Educational Services in Catholic Education Melbourne and author of Educator's Guide to Catholic Identity (2015).
- Rev. Brendan Reed is a parish priest and educator in the Archdiocese of Melbourne. His doctoral research explores leadership in Catholic communities in contemporary Australia.

The support from CTC for HDR students is superb: seminars, research days and luncheons are all great ways for research candidates to get together and discuss the journey with their fellow students, supervisors and CTC staff. For those thinking about study, choosing CTC is a wonderful choice.

James (student)

I enjoy the background reading, the engaging lectures and the class discussions which bring the subjects alive. Being able to share ideas and feel like you are contributing to worthwhile and positive conversation to the material being examined in class and having that validated in lectures, just adds to the impression that as a mature age student who has returned to study, I made the right choice to study at CTC.
